Dear friends,

Autumn House Press is excited and honored to share with you Philip Terman's new and selected poetry collection, Our Portion. This expansive work retails for $19.95 and is available through our website and on Amazon. The ISBN number is 978-1-938769-06-1.

About the Book:

This is a big-hearted, large-minded book, rich in its religious heritage yet wonderfully ironic, in its particulars, about those same compelling cultural connections. The flow of the writing, too, is thoroughly complete and poignantly alive in its follow-through, as if the poems were engaging the reader in real-life chat-narratives. Philip Terman's Our Portion is a work of profound maturity, practical wisdom, and reconciliation with what is possible. —Stanley Plumly

About the Author:

Philip Terman is the author of four books of poetry and four limited edition chapbooks. His poems have appeared in several journals and anthologies, including Poetry Magazine, The Kenyon Review, The Georgia Review, The Forward, Tikkun, The Sun Magazine, 99 Poems for the 99 Percent, and The Bloomsbury Anthology of Contemporary Jewish American Poetry. He has received the Anna Davidson Rosenberg Award for Poetry on the Jewish Experience, the Kenneth Patchen Award, and the Sow's Ear Prize. He's a professor of English at Clarion University, where he directs the Spoken Art Reading Series. Terman also co-directs the Chautauqua Writers' Festival, and is the coordinator of The Bridge Literary Arts Center in Franklin, PA. He has collaborated with musicians and visual artists and, on occasion, performs his poetry with the jazz band The Barkeyville Triangle.

If you have any questions, or if you would like to interview the author or arrange for him to visit a bookstore or college campus, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
Christine Stroud
